To Whom it may concern.

Thank you for giving me the opportunity to introduce myself. I'm an well seasoned web application developer with experience working on large, small, internal and public facing mission critical solutions — utilizing different technologies as required.

In my most recent position at a financial services company, I maintained a legacy web application and simultaneously migrated this same application to modern web frameworks and technologies. The project was cancelled at completion. During my tenure I received a positive employee review and merit pay increase.

Earlier I worked for an ESL (English as a second language) software company. Over the course of my 10 year tenure I created and maintained several web applications. These applications provided web services for students in multiple countries (Asia, Europe, esp. Turkey and China).

My projects are always highly specific/specialized towards unique business needs, most of my experience lies with C#/ASP.Net/MVC and before that with WebObjects/Java.

I'm continuing to write web applications for local sports and professional organizations. I am also revitalizing OS X applications I have written in the past and hope to bring them to the App Store.

Thank you for your time. I look forward to hearing from you.
